LEATHERCRAFT DISPLAY OPEN

An exhibition of leathercraft is now open at the Woodstock Art Gallery with more than 60 pieces on display. The exhibit is sponsored by the Woodstock branch of the Canadian Society for Creative Leathercraft and will continue until June 2. Four of the articles on display are on loan from the Royal Ontario Museum and are samples of leatherwork by North American Indians. Shown above, from left, Carol McLean, president of the local branch.

Beulah Reynolds, vice-president, and Grace Holmes, treasurer, admire some of the handicrafts on display. All three ladies have articles in the show. (Staff Photo by Bill Hutchinson)
